WHERE I WORKED WHEN AN APPRENTICE IN LACONIA, N. H.
The office of the Laconia (N. H.) Democrat, Main Street. Picture probably taken in 1878 by Geo. H. Tebbetts. The office was then owned by Wm. M. Kendall, formerly owned by O. A. J. Vaughan. It was sold by Mr. Kendall July 1, 1878, to Lewis A. Sabin, and moved to the Belknap Mills Finish Room, Mill St., in 1881, where it remained to 1927 when it was moved to the opposite side of the same street, the building formerly occupied by the Laconia Furniture Co.

First Meetings with F. W. Truland and W. J. Dearborn

Editor F. W. Sanborn of Norway, Me., Former Laconia, Tells Us of Old Times

From the Laconia, N. H. News and Critic

The recent passing of Frank W. Truland and William J. Dearborn, printers, to the unknown brings to mind our first meeting of Willie Dearborn was at his home on Belvidere Hill, Lakeport, in May, 1878. His father, John P. Dearborn, was a printer and worked for Col. M. A. Haynes of the Laconia Village Times where I was working. I called at the house and the boy was sick. It proved to be the measles and I caught them and laid off for a couple of weeks.

If I remember correctly I worked 14 months for my board and $40.00. And to recall $20.00 my father, John S. Sanborn of Meredith Center sued Mr. Haynes and the case was tried before a jury at the Court House. There was a misunderstanding regarding the term of service. The jury gave a verdict in favor of Haynes and $20.00 was paid.

The first meeting with Frank W. Truland was on the evening of election Nov. 1878. When Horace Greely and B. George Brown failed to be elected president and vice president, Frank voted for Greely. He was a short rather thick set man, wearing home-spun clothes and a Scotch cap and seemed to think himself of some consequence.

North of the Fields' Millinery Parlor was "Trickett" Smith's cobbler's shop. I recall that many citizens of about his age would gather in the evening and play dominoes. I do not think they played cards. I called one evening to get mended a pair of shoes and found Mr. Vaughan and Stage Driver Little much occupied over dominoes.

I got the shoes and paid $5.00 for them. It was nearly all my wages for a week's work. I was getting $6.00 a week and board at the time and was boarding in the family of Mr. Vaughan. The children were Charles, Grace and "Bennie". Grace married Charles Pittman and died a few years ago. "Bennie" never married and is now living.

Mr. Truland had been introduced as boss and that meant we must do as he said. The cleaning up of the office was a serious matter. "Kitt" Coffin and I scolded and used play words. When these came to the attention of Truland he inquired for the owners. No one answered and they were thrown into the stove.

One of the Tebbetts for many years resided in the office. He did not smoke and it pleased him greatly to see the destruction of the pipes. The edict that no smoking would be allowed in the office was announced.

Oran set type by the thousand getting 28 cents for each thousand set. Coffin coming from Manchester got the same price.

It was not long before Coffin left and Louie J. Truland, Frank's brother, took his place. Mr. Vaughan said Louie was a willing worker and was always busy. The inference might have been that I shirked. Louie worked by the week the same as I did.

I slept in a room adjoining the office and built the fires. Louie and I took turns sweeping, also in bringing up the wood. There was a pump in the wooden sink and the water came from some unknown place. We didn't drink it.

The Democrat was printed on a hand press. The room was low posted and a hole was cut into the story above for "swinging of the frisket." Mr. Vaughan often "pulled the press" and I rolled, that is, inked the type forms. Charles, Grace and Brownie helped fold. Chas. Vaughan was nimble at that, too.

Many subscribers called at the office to get their paper. The delivery of papers in that way was a great bother as it necessitated some one being in the office all the time especially for three days after it was printed.

There were Democrats and also Republicans who would feel disgraced to have a paper different from their political belief in the house. I remember a Jack who lived near the Fair Grounds and a Mike Scott, who were worthwhile Democrats. Also Col. Eber, a citizen, up in town and others, equally set in their ideas—even John Smith, on the Parade, and Jacob, his brother. They wouldn't willingly have a Republican paper near them.

There were others. The Republicans were the same. Nothing good could come from Democratic headism, southern prison-pens, bloody shirt, etc.

It now seems strange, but it was a fact at that time. The war had been closed only seven years. Party lines were closely drawn. The strife had not subsided. To look back to the files of the paper one would wonder at such a prejudice.

In 1879 Willie Dearborn came to the Democrat office, then owned by Lewis and Sanborn, as an apprentice. He boarded with the writer at the Col. James House, corner of Court and Fair street, and later lived on New Salem street until Sanborn moved to Norway, Me., in the summer of 1882.

At that time Winfield Scott Gore of Plymouth, N. H., was an apprentice in the office. He worked 3 years and went to Massachusetts and died near Boston some few years ago.

Louis J. Truland, Printer referred to above, is living at 150 Church St., Laconia. He is the owner or considerable real estate and other property. He could properly be called a wealthy, retired printer.

He was born in Lowell, Vermont, October 4, 1853. Commenced work on the White Mountain Republic, Littleton, N. H., when 14 years of age. Later he worked on the Independent Gazette of the same town. Also on the Lake Village Times, when owned by Col. M. A. Haynes and the Laconia Democrat under the ownership of O. A. Vaughan. He worked for a while at job printing in Nashua, N. H., and at Fitchburg, Mass.

He commenced business for himself in Laconia in October 1876 and continued up to August 1925. His brother Frank W. Truland was his partner and their shop was known as Truland Brothers, Job Printers.

There seems they have been in business in Laconia almost 50 years—to be exact, 49 years.

Getting up Nights

For Bladder Relief, Is Nature's Danger
Signal. Columbus Minister's Wife Relates Experience.

Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 824 No. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the Columbus Dispatch, that he was troubled seriously with bladder irritation and he used Liberated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 6 to 8 times each night. "I'll gladly answer any letter."

Liberated Buchu acts on the bladder as salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign matter and decreases excessive acidity, thereby relieving irritation. The tablets cost 25c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratories, Me-chanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. V. Ashton's, Bangor.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, and takes the place of mustard plasters.
Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Better than a mustard plaster.
